

Walkthrough

General commands:

- Move with the arrow keys
- Space to cycle through conversations
 - pressing space while a convo is typing into the screen will cause it to complete immediately
- Press L to leave your family house
- Walk into the houses by the river to go to the escale
- Walk all the way to the left in the escale to return to the home village
- You can enter the right-most hut to talk to your wife
- Press P to allocate more of your land to peanuts after the headtax is introduced
- Press M to allocate more of your land to millet after the headtax is introduced
- Walk into people to talk to them

Part 1:

1. The first thing you do in the game is talk to a neighbor who teaches you about the basics of farming in the colonial Senegambia and how to cycle through conversations
2. Next you can go to the distinct part of the field to harvest millet. You will need to harvest millet before you can visit the escale
3. Your wife should respond to you differently depending on the amount of millet you have
4. After you harvest millet the first time, you should be able to go to the escale by walking over to the two buildings on the beach

5. At the escale if you talk to the colonial official (near the top), he will tell you about the head tax, and then you can go back to the home village and farm peanuts.
6. After speaking to the colonial official you will be able to allocate peanuts by pressing either the P or M key
7. You must allocate some peanuts to continue in the game, if you don't, the player will warn you about the head tax and encourage you to allocate peanuts

Part 2 (After peanut farming is dominant):

1. Now you can talk to new people at the escale and a new neighbor at home, your wife will also have new dialogue